

IS BUSINESS LIFE GETTING YOU DOWN?

Business owners and managers can run a very lonely race with no one to support or encourage them in the development of their business.

Networking groups help, but they can be superficial and limited in time.

Our Welfare Officer gives you an opportunity to confidentially unload your daily challenges and helps you seek solutions.

WHAT DOES A WELFARE OFFICER DO?

Our Welfare Office, Rob McMaster, is here to help you work through issues by being present to listen, support, encourage, care, pray if requested, and to empower people to see and develop their own plans of action.

Talking with a Welfare Officer can help prevent issues escalating, and can also be there in your grief or emergencies.

Staff turnover, absenteeism, low productivity and poor morale all affect the profitability of a business - as well as the wellbeing of a business owner. Early intervention can help minimise negative impacts and offer positive solutions.

If you'd like some support as you navigate life and business, get in touch with Rob McMaster.
